HealthEquity CTO Ashley Dreier Named ‘CTO of the Year’

DRAPER, UT (May 10, 2017)—HealthEquity, Inc. (NASDAQ: HQY), a leading health savings account (HSA) provider, is pleased to announce that its Chief Information and Technology Officer (CTO) Ashley Dreier was awarded ‘CTO of the Year’ by the Utah Technology Council (UTC), Utah’s premier professional association for over 6,000 tech companies. During the UTC’s 26th annual members meeting, Ashley was selected among 212 CTOs across Utah to receive the prestigious award.

Ashley has more than 20 years of high-tech engineering experience in business applications and software development. Ashley leads HealthEquity’s software development, technology infrastructure and information services teams. As a recognized thought leader, she regularly contributes to UTC’s CTO forum sharing best practices, discussing trending topics and providing solutions for learning opportunities.

“We are honored to have Ashley recognized by her peers in Utah’s tech industry,” said Jon Kessler, president and CEO of HealthEquity. “Ashley’s knowledge and vision has been invaluable in shaping our technology strategy. Thanks to her leadership and team, the focus on increased quality and efficiency is driving the company’s success.”

Utah Technology Council gives an influential, unified voice to the state’s 6,000 technology businesses and marshals support from government, education and community leaders. UTC’s annual members meeting is an invitation-only event for their members to review the last twelve months’ successes, set goals for the upcoming year and present industry awards to individuals that have made a significant impact to elevate Utah’s entire tech community.
